Partnering with ChildServe

The purpose shared by both the parent and ChildServe is the health and well-being of the child entrusted to ChildServe for support. Our dependence on one another requires us to work together to meet your child's needs.

Together we are responsible to:

- Treat each other with dignity and respect.
- Resolve concerns in ways that build a positive relationship.
- Share essential information to understand your child's needs (i.e. medical history, changes in health, changes in contact information)
- Develop a plan of care that will meet the priority needs of your child.
- Talk with one another at least once every three months to review your child's progress.
- Meet with one another and others providing support to your child at least once a year to develop a new plan of care.
- Keep each other informed of any changes in your child's health or any circumstances that would affect the services received from us.
- Notify each other in advance of any scheduling changes.
- Utilize available resources in a responsible way

By signing this agreement, we agree to partner to meet the needs of my child. We agree to our roles and responsibilities as outlined in this agreement and the ChildServe Rights and Responsibilities brochure.
